September 7! Summer vacation ended as quickly as it had begun, and a busy school year was ushered in. After three months of late sleep in the morning, we were jolted awake by a buzzing alarm and rushed off to school. After a short meeting in the auditorium, schedules were handed out and school was in full session. Within the next few days all the text-books were issued and homework became a regular thing. Clubs and organizations set up schedules of events for their ambitious members as dances, field trips, and other projects were planned. Seven class periods a day, a modern school, numerous after-school events, countless extra curricular activities, ninety-nine faculty members, and 1757 students contributed to East High on the go!

STUDENTS EAGERLY HASTEN to school in the morning anxious to start on their studies and activities.

FRESHMEN AND SOPHOMORES display the enthusiasm and school spirit which typifies all of East High.

SERIOUSLY CONCENTRATING freshmen make a good impression on their first day as they busily copy their class schedules which will start them on their high school careers.

From opening day on, we plunge into action

SENIORS DISCUSS THEIR summer experiences with one another on the first day of school following assembly.

EAST'S CAFETERIA becomes the center of attraction during the lunch periods when food is the main interest.

The opening day of school found us scattered throughout the halls relating our summer experiences to one another. But our leisure was short-lived as our faculty handed us schedules, books, and assignments. In addition to piles of schoolwork, we enjoyed a very successful football season, and to keep us even busier, Speculum pictures were taken for several days. After hours were filled by many students as they practised for "Teahouse of the August Moon."

GIFT GIVING is the common way oriental people welcome strangers to the country, as is portrayed in the fall play, "Teahouse of the August Moon," by Mr. Fijora (D. Shannon), Captain Fishby (R. Jennings), as Sakini (J. Dittmann) watches Fishby receive a cricket cage.

THE COMEDY in "Teahouse of the August Moon" is exemplified by Lady Astor's reluctance to go to Tobiki.

HOMECOMING QUEEN, court, and escorts—J. Quantock, J. Hart; P. Metzger, S. Ellertson; P. Mouw, R. Kieso; B. McElroy, queen, M. Shoger; K. Schindel, D. Bauer; A. Ochsenschlager, A. Schindel; N. Hauser, and E. Washington.

Homecoming and variety show thrill students . .

Excitement mounted as the homecoming queen and her court were selected to reign over the festivities. Highlighting the excitement, we danced a memorable evening at "Stairway to the Stars," theme of this year's homecoming.

Representing the feeling we have for our country, "I Like It Here" was the theme for the fourteenth annual variety show. Many of us worked hours after school on novelty acts, songs, dances, and construction of the scenery.

SQUEALS OF DELIGHT and surprise arise from Bonnie McElroy as Mark Shoger, captain of the 1960 football team, presents the Homecoming Queen's corsage.

"LET'S ADD ANOTHER STAR to our crown" was the theme of the award winning Girls' Club homecoming float. Adding the star is Jeanette Sutherland while Karen James and Natalie Messenger predict the future stars.

GRAND OLD FLAG symbolizes theme of Variety Show, "I Like It Here," as interpreted by Military Tap: M. Kouvavas, K. Gough, B. Bourtzos, B. Swanee, R. Burgdorf, V. Barens, J. Richardson, N. Kelley, C. Nelson, P. Jensen, K. Peterson, S. Hutfilz, J. Sutherland, J. Goodrich, P. Schumack, J. Doney, C. Maier, J. Schindel, J. LeRette, S. Culver.

LISTENING TO an oral book report, Belles on Their Toes, over the inter-phone given by Paul Trinko in Miss Smith's English class is Mary Ellen Petersohn, who attends East High by telephone.

Christmas interrupts our hurried schedule

Students worked at home and in the classroom; individually and in groups. Christmas, with its after-school jobs and the buying of presents added more to our rush of activity. The art classes decorated the showcases and halls, the student lounge held the traditional Girls' Club flocked tree, and the music and drama groups presented a special assembly for both the P.T.A. and the students.

STILL LIFE painting in Mr. Sewell's Art II class looks easy as Henry Dumas uses his skill to bring canvas to life.

GATHERED TO PRAISE the baby Jesus in "The Fourth Wise Man" are J. Brauer, R. Tesch, A. Stubbs, wise men; D. Powers, K. Root, B. Bourtzos, angels; D. Shannon, Joseph; S. Feiden, Mary; J. Shettles, L. Vaughn, J. Hill, angels. Pageant was given for the all-school assembly and the P.T.A. program by the combined drama and music groups.

Minstrel and dances provide entertainment

Linda, you're one of the nicest girls I know. Larry Richmond "63"

Boys became black-faced as they presented the twenty-sixth annual Minstrel Show, "S.S. Showboat," for the students and public. East High's clubs and organizations sponsored dances and concession stands at athletic events and many other varied projects to raise needed funds.

VOCALISTS for the 1961 minstrel show, "S.S. Showboat"—R. Boudreau, M. Leonard, J. Thom, D. Wagner, and J. Card—display their talent.

"GEORGIA PEACHES"—J. Lindrothe, T. Jones, A. Fezekas, J. Rhoades, R. Blatner, J. Fitzpatrick, J. Stone, M. Shoger—star in varsity kickline.

Best of Luck Linda, Always, Be Good and Remember me, one of your Geometry Class Pals Jay Card

HASTILY HANGING decorations for the fifth-quarter dance, "Rat Race by the Tomcats," are decoration committee members—Jim Oros, Betty Enslow, and Judy Quanrock—of Pep Club.

AFTER-SCHOOL HOURS find East's students at many extracurricular activities, especially at dances which are held after all home football and basketball games.

RAIN OR SHINE, Pep Cub takes the responsibility of sponsoring various concessions at all home football games.

REHEARSALS for the 1961 Illinois State High School Drama Contest are in full swing; cast of Gloria Mundi work on facial expression and voice quality—K. Roots, J. Maxey, P. Peterson, D. Coakley, J. Kewenig, T. Jones.

Goals reached; "King and I" is presented

Spring brought the release of the high honor roll, "The King and I," presented by the choral and drama groups, the displays of the home economics, industrial education, and art and photography students at the P.T.A. exhibit, and the presentation of "Gloria Mundi" in the State High School Drama Contest.

HIGH HONOR ROLL—Back Row: C. Nelson, R. Numrich, R. Evans, D. Buhrmann, K. MacDonald, P. Jensen. Third Row: P. Weissenborn, R. Anderson, M. Mouw, L. Whitt, J. Truemper, P. Peterson. Second Row: N. Gley, A. Robert, D. Koenigsberg, C. Abel, D. Zulauf, J. Burghart. First Row: B. Neill, R. Frost, J. Miller, R. DuSell. Not in Picture: M. Harms, M. Trapp.

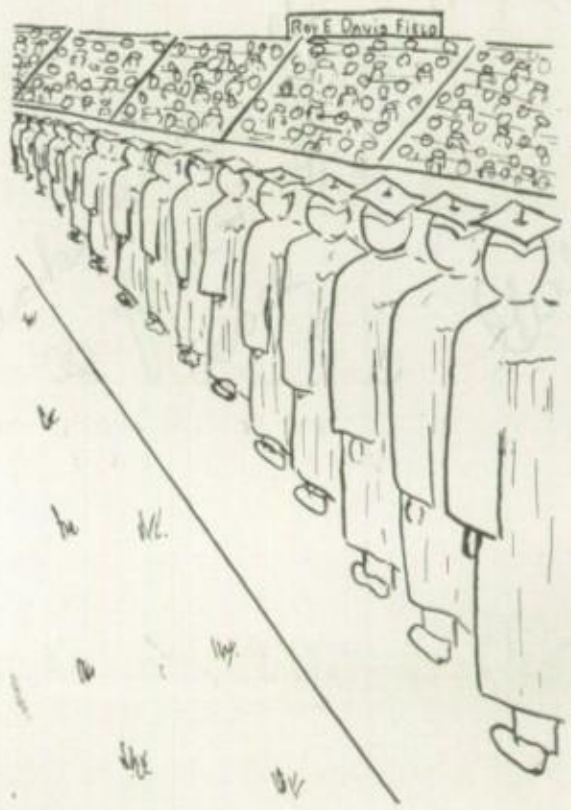
THE HOME ECONOMICS style show and exhibits before East's P.T.A. highlights the year for students who take advanced sewing classes such as June Bihlmayer, who models her dress as Pat Kucginski makes suggestions.

ROGER HART as the King of the spring musical, "The King and I," suspiciously watches Anna (JoEtte Tatar) and Sir Edward Ramsey (John Dittmann) reminisce.

WHISTLING A HAPPY TUNE so Captain Orton (D. Bjorseth), Kralahome (R. Dexter), interpreter (J. Lindrothe) and slaves (J. Barbee, J. Gerkin) won't suspect they're afraid are Louis (F. Mersman) and Anna (J. Tatar).

TAKING TIME to clean their lockers is one of the final requirements of all the students as their active year ends.

As the end of school was nearly upon us, lockers were cleaned for their long period of emptiness. The courtyards became overrun with East's 1750 victims of spring fever, but this had to give way to the rush of the last week, when final preparations were made for graduation. On Class Day the Speculum was formally presented, and students eagerly congregated to write their comments and autographs in their friends' books. Graduating seniors marched from the auditorium, reminiscing silently upon their past years at East High. Thus, our year of hurried activity came to a reflective end.



BEFORE RUSHING ON to their afternoon classes, students rest and chat with their friends in the cafeteria courtyard.

Linda
Although I don't know you well, I'm proud to call you my friend! I hope to know you better next year.
Be good,
Diane
Sincerely
Diane

JOHN MILLER and Sharryn Hutfilz exchange signatures in their 1961 Speculums as other seniors follow suit after Class Day. The Spec signing party is the last of the all-school activities. Over 1,400 books were distributed.

With spring comes locker cleaning, graduation

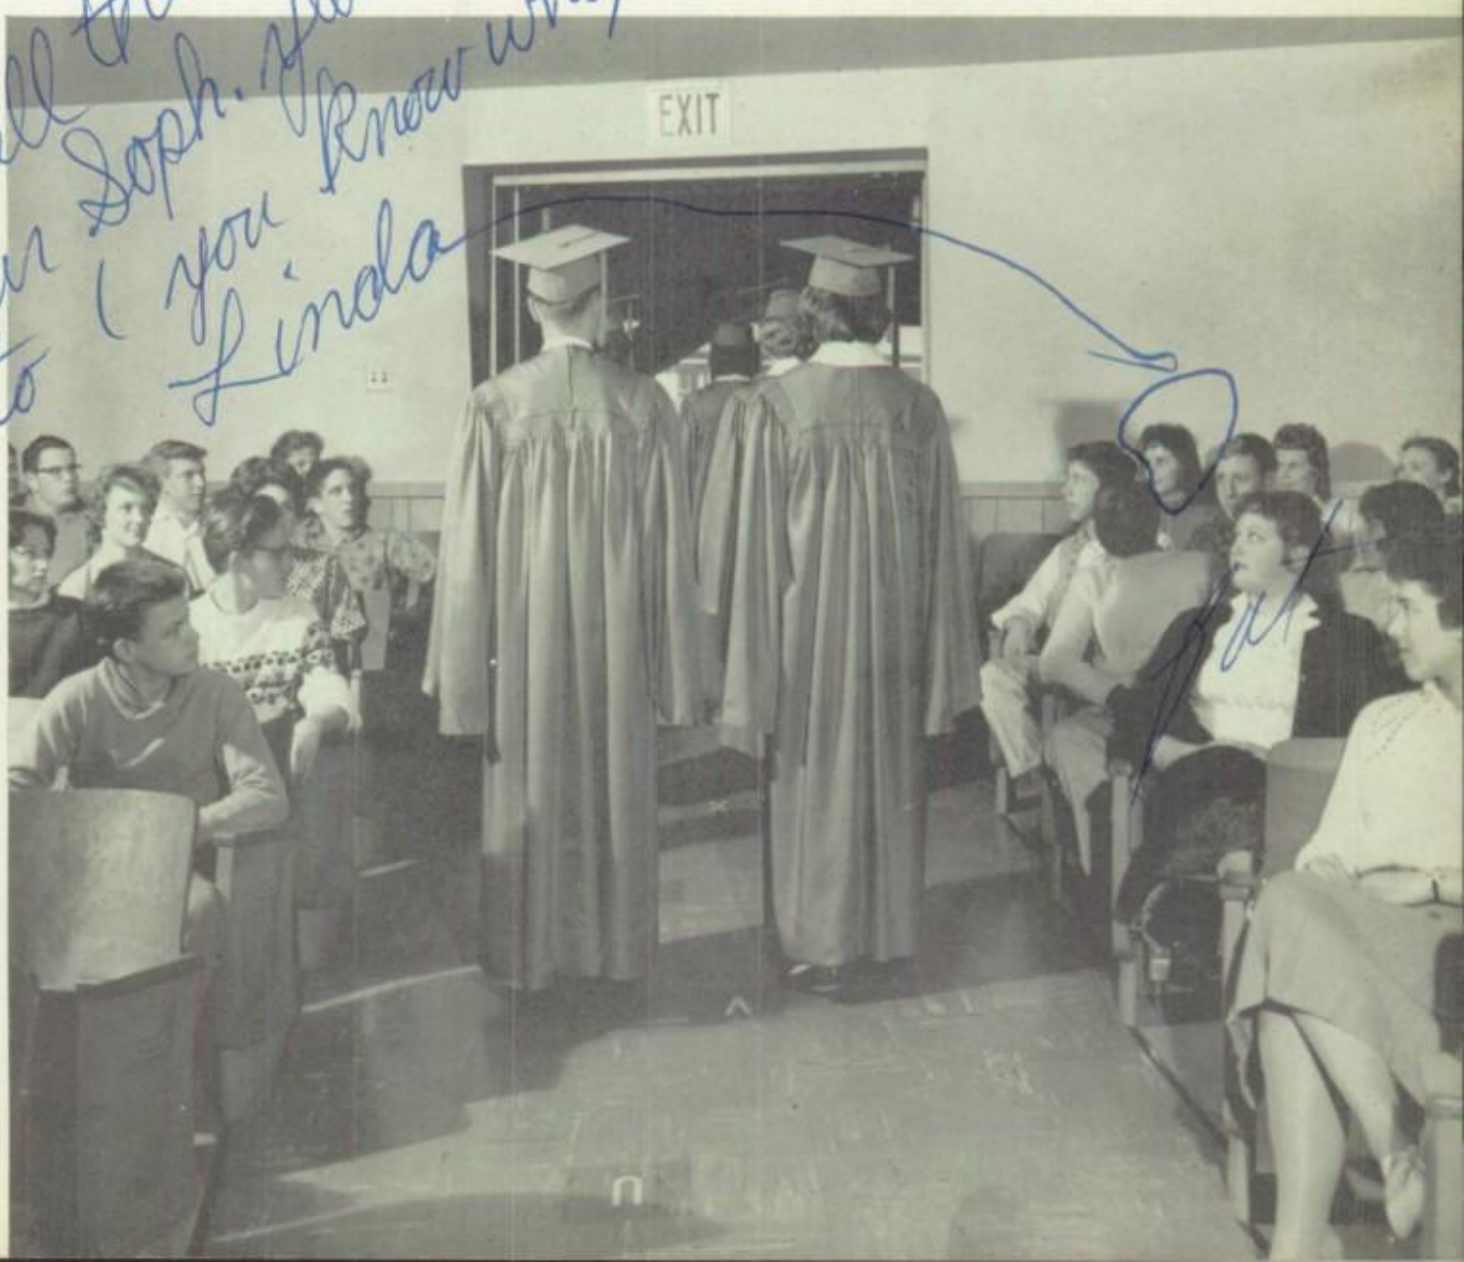
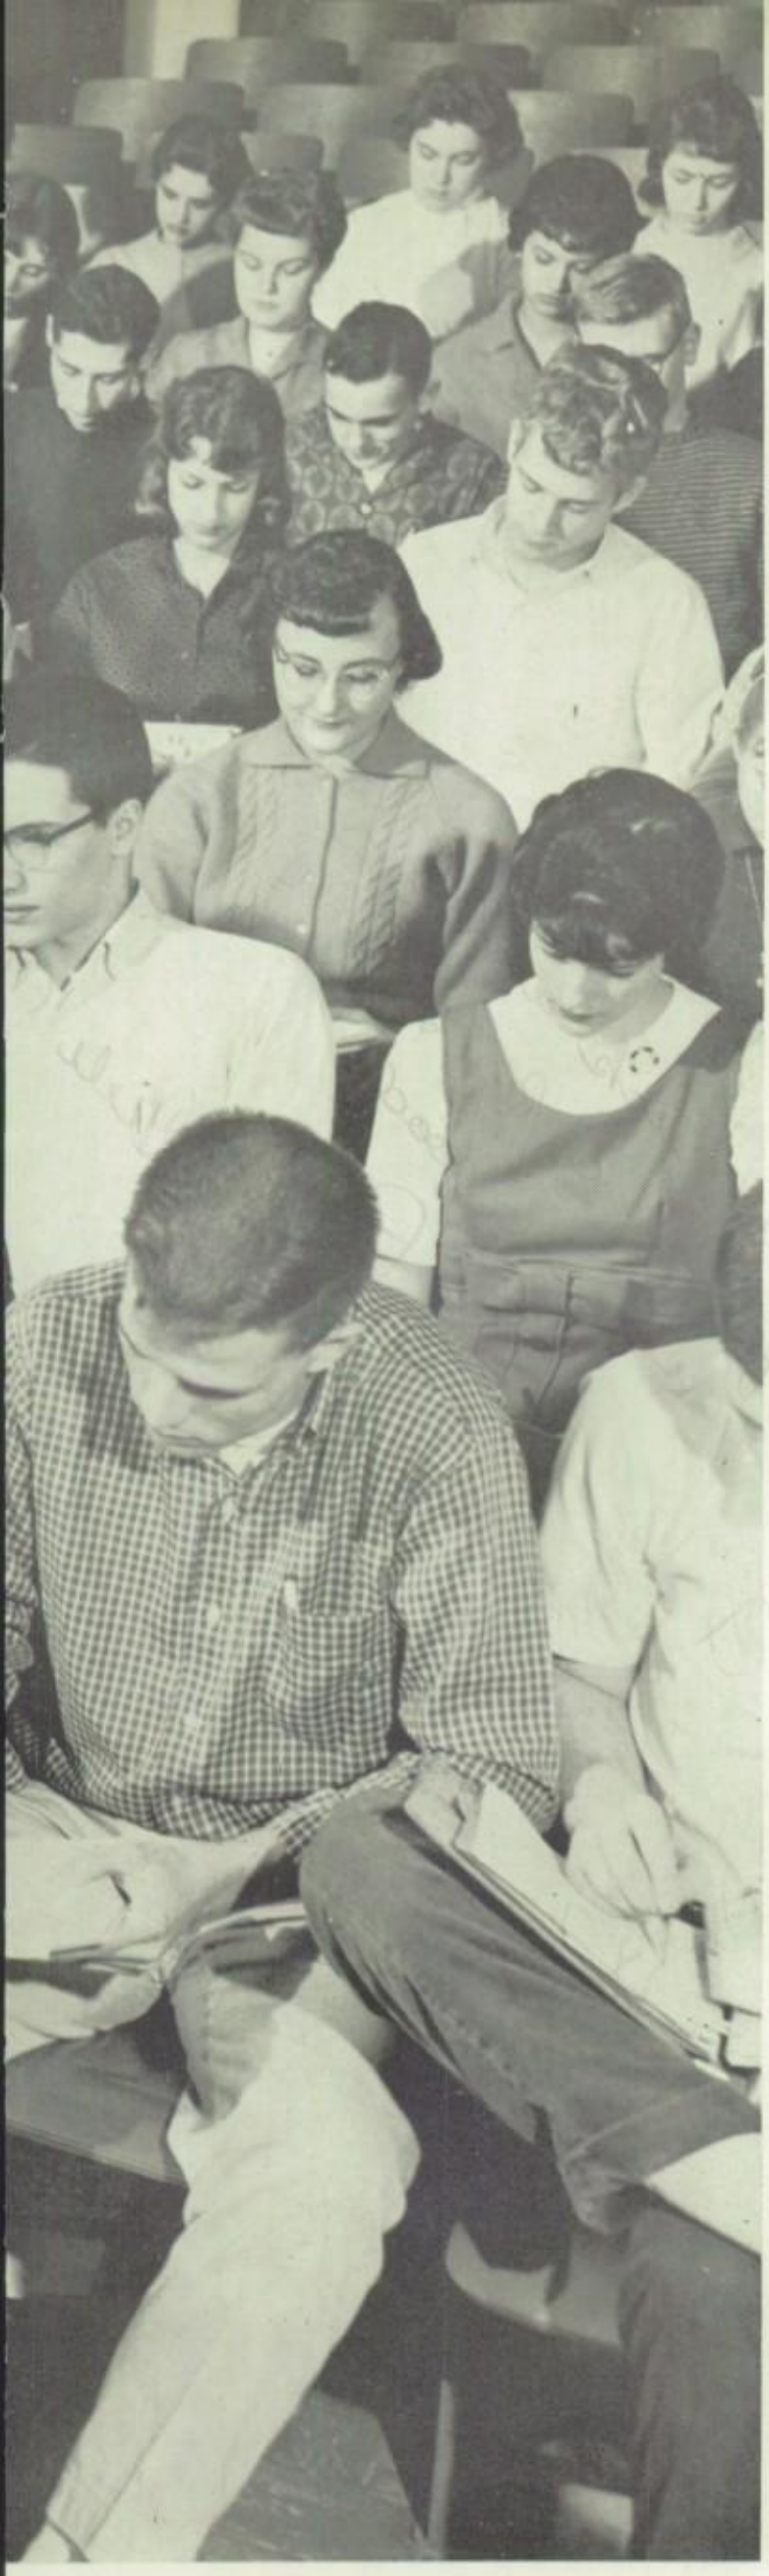
Try to be good to (you know who).



ON CLASS DAY after National Honor Society and scholarships are announced, and the Speculum is presented, seniors in caps and gowns file from the auditorium before the awed underclassmen.



Classes

Reaching for high C on the scale, pounding clay, striving for clear pictures, baking cherry pies, slaving over term papers, struggling through "Macbeth," becoming stumped over limits, ruining experiments in the halogens, cutting gears, straining muscles in exercises, striving for 40 words a minute, pouring over mythology, rushing to the library to investigate Stonehenge, Apollo, or John Quincy Adams, spending hours after school reconstructing experiments that had exploded in class, massaging writer's cramp from scribbling lecture notes, taking "No-Doze" to finish Doctor Zhivago or Exodus—these assignments kept all of us constantly on the go.

(On the go)

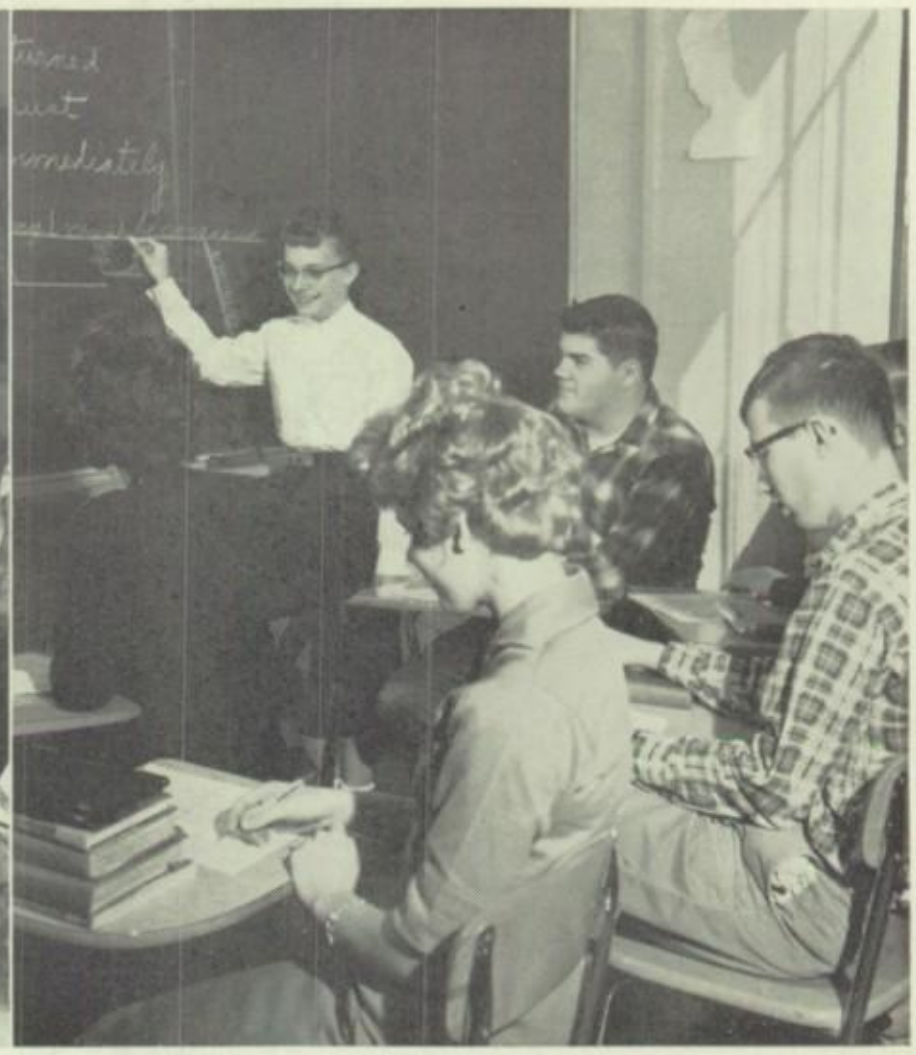
Team teaching adopted in English department

AS AN AID TO THE MEMORIZATION of the many lines required by Miss Prindle in her English Literature classes, these college-bound seniors listen attentively to a recording of William Shakespeare's immortal tragedy, "Macbeth."

English is when we learned to talk rightly. We also learned that a preposition is what we never end a sentence with. The rules came easily, but those exceptions caused some problems. When we finally built the foundation, we set about decorating our little house of English. The specialized finishing touches were composed of creative writing, journalism, and rhetoric. Those of us who took these subjects are the fortunate editors and staff members of next year's Speculum and Aurorian. The speech classes activated a good many students as we overcame our fear of the audience. In English Literature we became familiar with Shakespeare by reading and listening to recordings of "Macbeth." In senior rhetoric our grammar was given a final polish with extensive work in theme writing.

"THE VOICE OF YOUTH" theme contest entries are carefully prepared by Sharon Stallman, Sue Gusler, and Pam Szilage under the direction of Miss Richards, their English instructor. Sharon's was accepted by the Chicago Daily Tribune.

WHILE THE EAGER students of Mr. Woolley's Spanish III class try their hands at reading some of Mexico's most popular magazines, Mr. Woolley converses with Jim Schoeberlein and perhaps translates a word or a few phrases.



RITA DUSELL EXPLAINS the English use of the Latin verb form in her diagram from Julius Caesar while the other members of Mrs. Anderson's third hour Latin III class check their papers to see if they agree with her.

Basic courses provided in three languages

Three foreign languages were offered—Spanish, German, and Latin—from which we made our choice. We learned quickly and advanced from counting to ten to translating difficult stories and conversations. Spanish magazines and tape recordings were used to familiarize us with the language. German offered information about many of that country's noted philosophers, and some time was even spent examining German comic books. Diagramming Latin sentences and translating Julius Caesar increased our English understanding and provided a challenge for all of us. All departments decorated their rooms and showcases with maps, travel posters, and figurines representing the people and landscape of their countries.

POINTING OUT one of the many places of interest in the movie, "Der Rhein," to his German class is Mr. Mittag. Visual aids are important to language study.

Science and math

As college bound students at East, we tackled many absorbing situations in an effort to get as complete a science background as possible. As physics students we struggled through Carnot's cycle using a new science curriculum text book. In the chemistry lab, we gave the new calorimeter, an instrument used to measure the amount of heat given off by a fuel, a thorough workout testing everything from charcoal to French bread. Meanwhile, in biology we engulfed ourselves in the prickly business of finding our blood types. We modernized insect collection displays by using plastic foam boards instead of the traditional cardboard shoe box. At the annual Aurora Foundation Science Fair we were able to publicly demonstrate our scientific accomplishments and experiments.

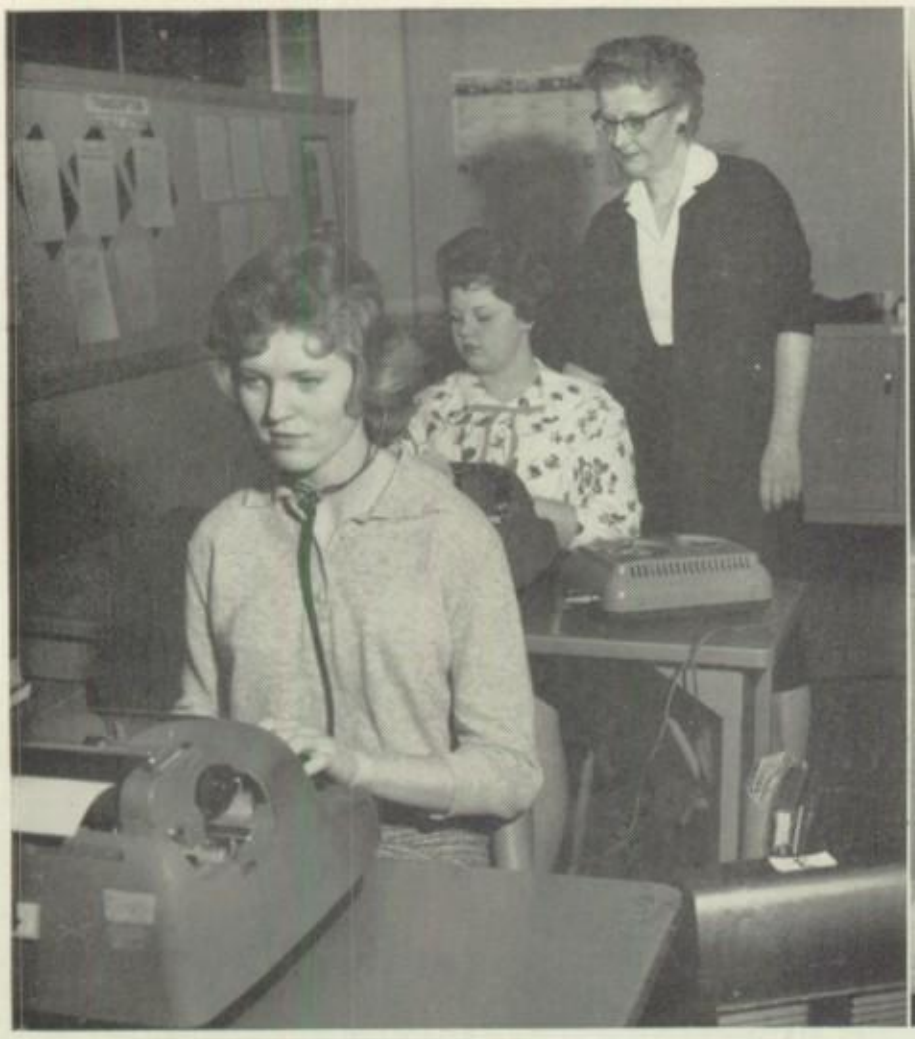
courses prepare students for changing world

FRACTION WORK in multiplication is demonstrated at board by Peggy Sajeske and Peggy Rankin in Algebra II class under the supervision of Mr. Mouw, teacher, and Miss Astrida Eglitis, student teacher, Northern Ill. U.

DETERMINATION of the distance from a point to a line, a problem involving analytic geometry, is explained by Rosemarie Frost as fellow students from Mr. Buckler's senior math class, Bob Numrich and Jim Kretz, look puzzled.

"All woggles are snoggles. This snoggle is a luke. Determine a conclusion from these two hypotheses," said Mr. Buckler to his senior advanced math students. Passers-by wondered what was going on as such problems were dealt with by college-bound seniors. Problems arose at the lower levels also where freshmen were challenged with the seemingly incomprehensible world of algebra and were trying desperately to make sense of quadratic equations. Sophomores struggled through more plane geometry, proved more theorems, and studied more about the works of Euclid and Pythagoras than they ever thought existed. Meanwhile, the juniors delved deep into the realm of advanced algebra and its applications to the fields of science.

BETTER UNDERSTANDING of geometry is provided by these models illustrating loci of points worked out for Aurora Science Fair by T. Heggen, F. Martin, M. Morge, and M. Mouw of Mrs. Mellon's class.



TRANSCRIBING from a dictaphone is a rewarding experience, one of the secretary's more pleasant jobs. Judy Carlson and Carol Moore perform this task with ease as Miss Pittz checks Carol's work. Transcribing is part of Steno.

Business ed trains tomorrow's office worker

From senseless circles to mile-long dictations, from ffjj to typing term papers, from learning what a debit is to balancing the school's books, we business students of East progressed. As freshmen, we were barely able to comprehend the process of making out checks and filing. When we graduated to the sophomore level, we realized the difficulties of typists and bookkeepers. As upperclassmen we were entitled to further our training for secretarial work with a study of shorthand. Finally, as seniors, we became expert at operating the comptometers, adding machines, mimeograph machines, and other forms of business and office equipment.

Social studies department emphasizes election

Voting and the election of government executives was stressed by the social studies department from the opening of the school year. Films and recorded speeches were presented to help students to discern a well-qualified candidate from one who merely "sounds good." After reviewing the origin of the secret ballot and our basic voting rights, individual studies were made into candidates' qualifications and debates were held by students of opposing parties. All this preparation was climaxed when a mock election was held and revealed by a vote of 597-553 that Richard Nixon was the favorite at East High. After the national election the classes referred to newspapers and current publications as they investigated the actions and proposed changes to be made by the new administration. As the effects of the election wore off, interest in foreign and international affairs increased as attention turned to the Congo and other current events.

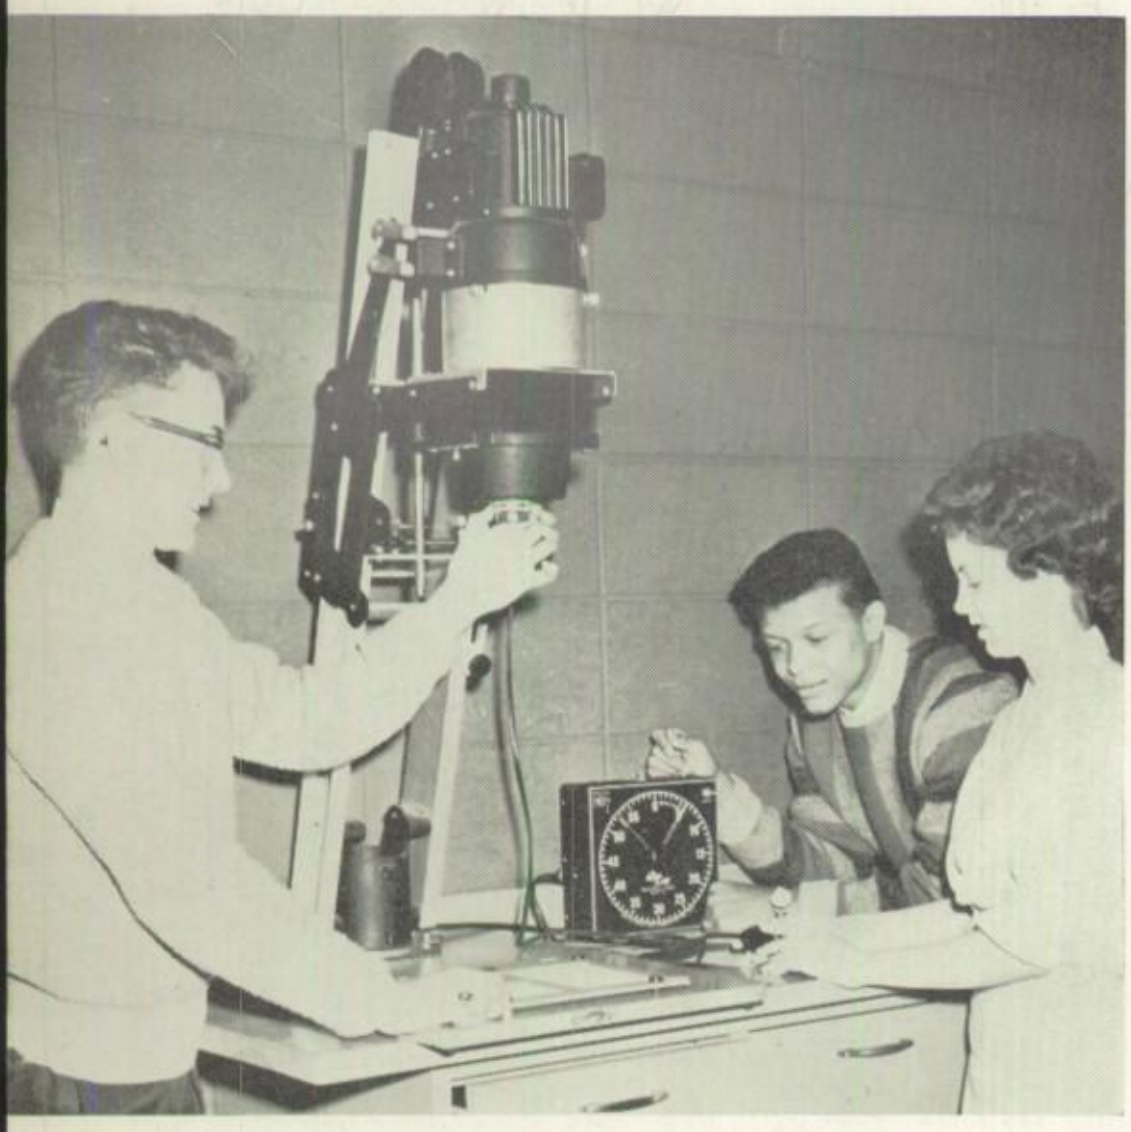
JIM MITCHELL enthusiastically supports John F. Kennedy with a forceful speech and a colorful poster display.

IN ANSWER to his opponent's speech, Alan Long defends Richard M. Nixon with a fiery rebuttal and poster display.

SENIOR OFFICIALS Bill Mabrey, Sandra Culver, and Carol Maier check registration blanks of Pat Schag, Jodeen Richardson, and Don Bauer during student voting conducted by Mr. Bergman's civics classes on Nov. 7.

Art, photograpy, industrial education give

SANDRA DOWEN and Barb Leonard work at the loom while Dennis Clem molds a clay form, and Brenda Seibert and Sandy Frick illustrate posters for the spring musical, Richard Rogers and Oscar Hammerstein's "The King and I."



PHOTOGRAPHY provides many lasting rewards for Rick Testin, Bob Dean, and Sandy Lanier as they quickly find out when they begin enlarging some of their favorite pictures.

Ceramics, mobiles, and other interesting designs were constructed by the art students this year. They brightened the halls with their colorful decorations and mounted contemporary tree models on the stairwells throughout the Christmas season. Many class periods were devoted to designing posters and signs to publicize "The King and I," while other artists spent their time creating some of the characteristic Siamese scenery and costumes for the performers. Photography students were given a new project this year: they took colored movies of all the home basketball games to help the team review their strong and weak points. Picture stories were made of the Auroran and a nearby dairy, and the showcases were kept filled with displays of pictures taken and developed by photography students. New equipment, including washers, developing tanks, 35mm cameras, tripods, filters, lights, and polecats, was purchased with the money donated by various organizations.

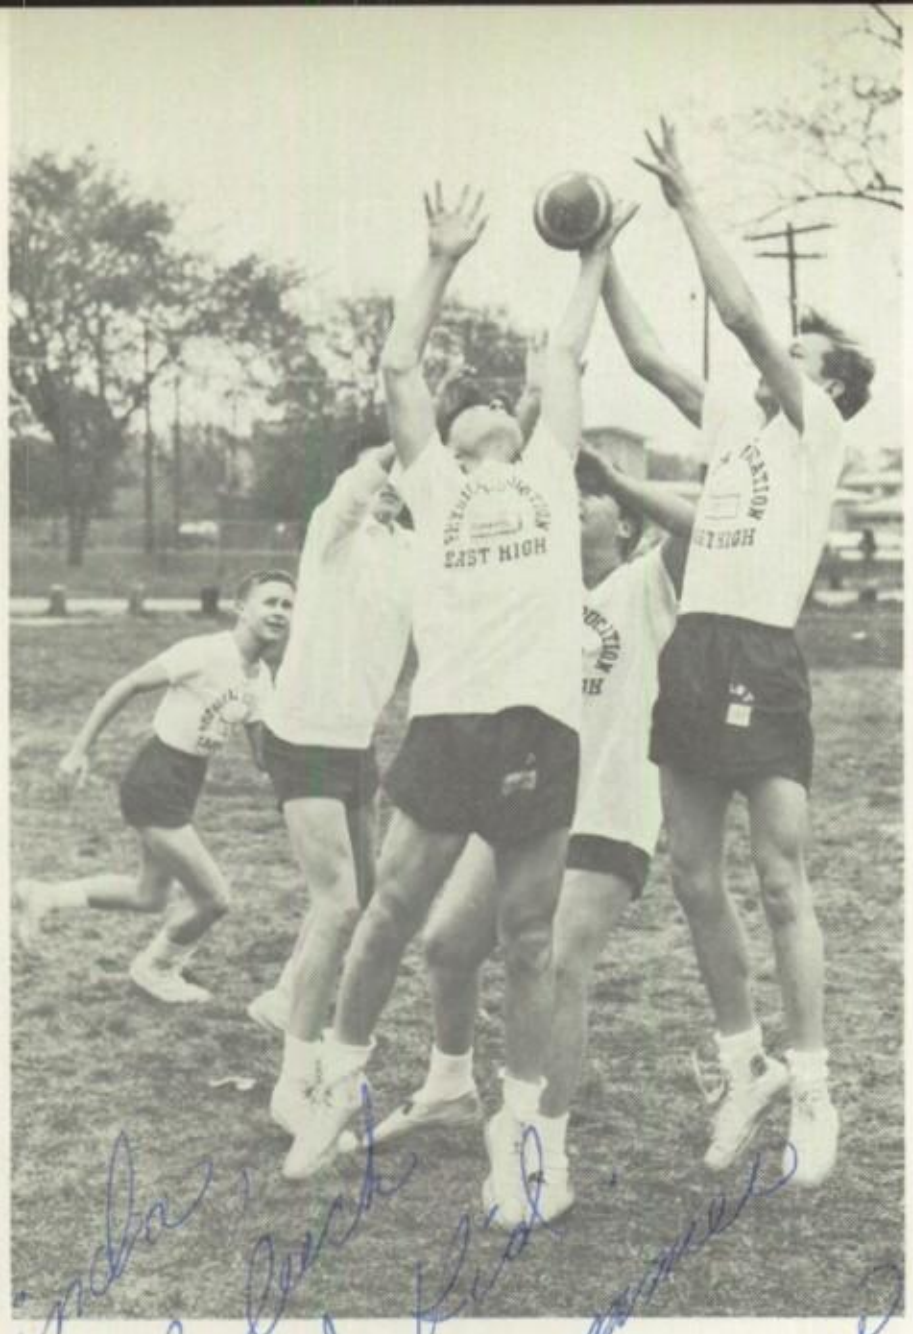
As we approach the industrial education wing, the smell of carbon tetrachloride from the print shop irritates our nostrils. There, boys are rolling off Aurorans, tickets, and programs. Farther down the hall drafting students with their T-squares are accurately measuring and drawing plans for mechanical tools or their "dream" home. To the sounds of saws and planes, woodworkers construct tables, lamps, and period furniture in finest wood. Humming machines beat in our ears as students operate drill presses and arc welders. Electronics students industriously work with wires, amplifiers, and speakers. In the drivers' education classes a girl nervously awaits her turn behind the wheel. We see diversified occupations students rushing from school to punch the time clock at their chosen trade.

STARTING WITH raw materials and special tools, these woodworking students, Bill Draudt and Tom Cooper, carefully work under the supervision of Mr. Burgett toward the finished products—a bed and a walnut coffee table.

ROGER CAINAN is cutting a beveled gear with a dividing or indexing head on a horizontal mill while Bill Stirn cuts a taper gib key on a vertical mill. Roger was a "Merit Award" winner along with Joe Dumas in the 1960 National Industrial Arts Awards Fair, Dearborn, Michigan.

MINIATURE houses are constructed from the floor plans that Ron Hauser and Andy Platacis have drawn during Mr. Paulson's advanced drafting class. This class is the basis for future engineers.

P. E. builds stamina



EAGERLY JUMPING for the ball, these members of the boys' physical education classes develop their muscular co-ordination.

"Step to the center and step right back; pass your partner on a single track . . ." could be heard from the girls' gym as the girls and boys promenaded their partners while dancing in the co-recreational physical education program. The physical education wing was a busy place day and night. Classes were active there during the day, and intramural participants took over after hours. Besides their regular program, the girls added to their list of activities a new apparatus class and inter-class tournaments. To build up coordination and muscles, the boys participated in touch football, volleyball, swimming, and golf, which was added for the first time this year. When the weather permitted, classes were held outside on the athletic field and on the campus. Formal calisthenics continued as part of the program with competition to set new records.

ACTIVE MEMBERS of the junior leaders' physical education class enjoy a strenuous but fun-filled session of field hockey.

Bullying the ball is one of the more skillful and interesting phases of this game which develops quick response.

Home ec emphasizes efficient homemaking

FROM CUTTING the pattern to pinning the hem to modeling the finished product in the spring Parent-Teacher style show, Pat Kucginski and June Bihlmayer enjoy the rewarding work in Miss Brown's advanced dressmaking class.

Teaching us to cook, make our own clothing, decorate our homes, and care for the sick was the aim of home economics. We foods students learned how to plan, prepare, and serve nutritious meals. Foreign foods were studied in Foods III while management was studied by Foods IV. In clothing we advanced from potholders, shirts, blouses, and jumpers to advanced dressmaking where we made formals and cocktail dresses. Suits and coats were created in the tailoring classes. As home nurses we studied home care of the sick. Those of us enrolled in home living discussed dating, studied interior decorating, child care, and consumer buying. In spring the more eager home economics students displayed their best work before their faculty and parents in the annual style show for P.T.A.

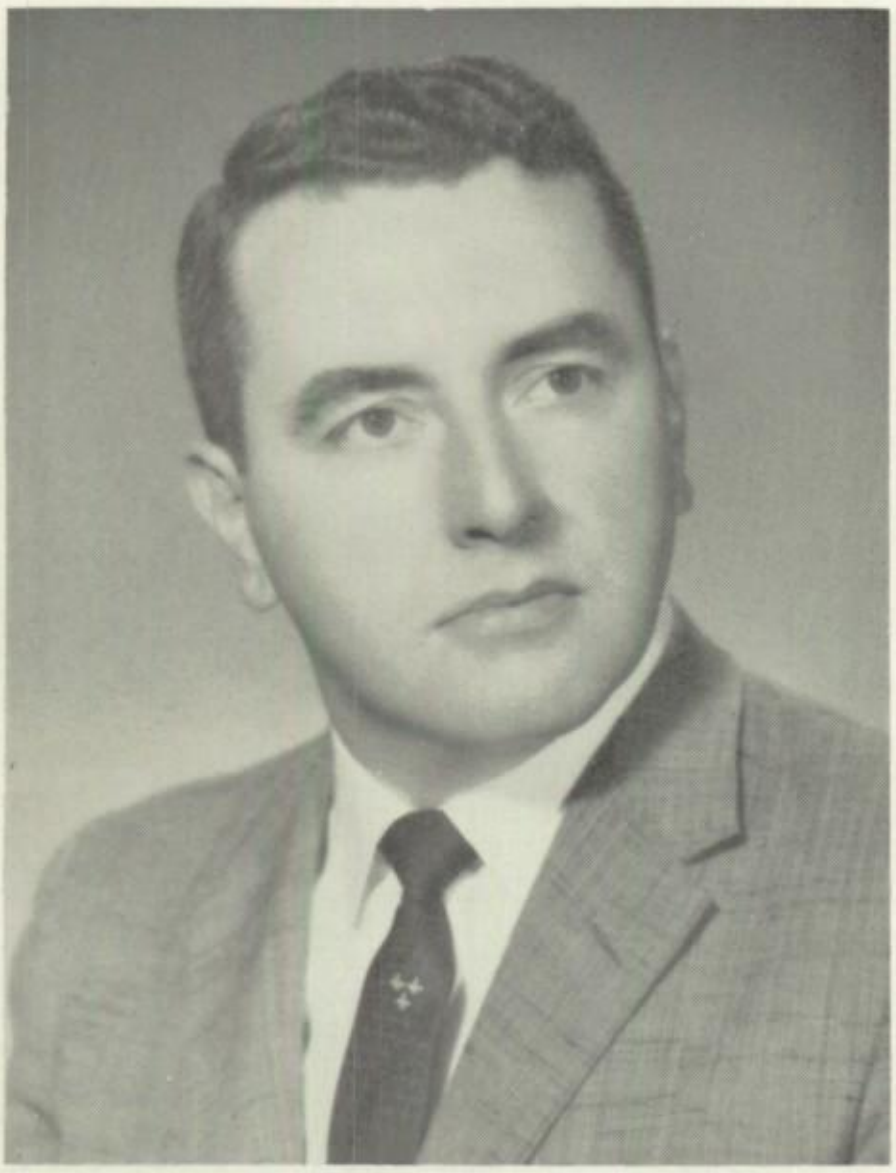
Board of Education runs District 131 smoothly



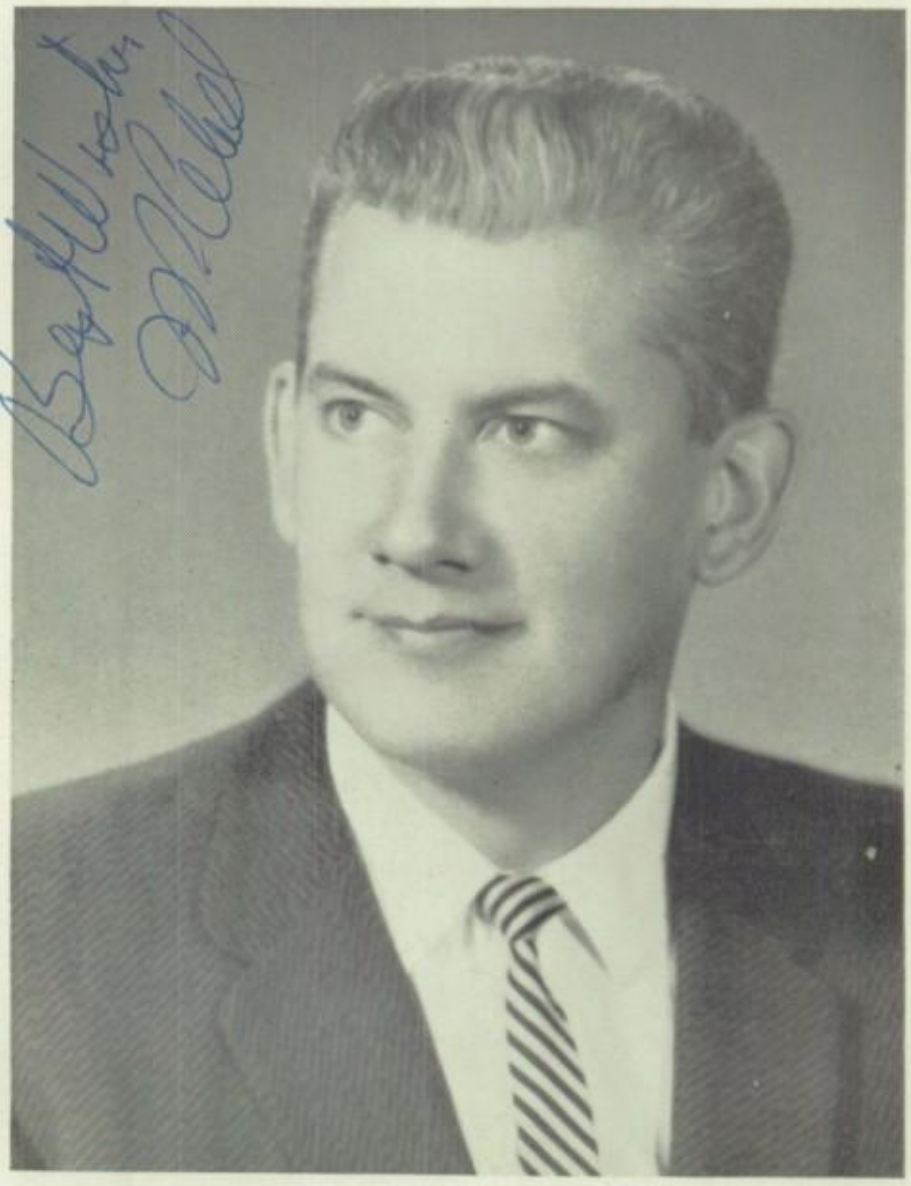
SUPERINTENDENT—Dr. Norman Green is the chief executive and administrator of School District 131.

Approving the construction of a new school service center at the old Young School site and the completion of the Clifton Simmons Junior High were the main accomplishments of the East Side Board of Education. Next fall, East High will revert to a senior high school since the two junior high schools will be able to accommodate the anticipated 750 freshmen. With the opening of the new school, the Board will have jurisdiction over nine elementary schools, two junior high schools, one high school, over 300 instructors, and over 7,000 students. The Board's first meeting each month was devoted to a study session, the second to a business meeting, and others to special purposes. At these conferences the members studied and developed new, up-to-date policies along with numerous other measures for the betterment of the school system including extensive research and study concerning the district's curriculum.

BOARD OF EDUCATION: Stuart Shoger, Roy A. Dittmann, Mrs. LeRoy Lipke, W. Stanley Kruger, Sec., Nicholas A. Hermes, President, Dr. Norman S. Green, Superintendent of Schools, Robert Winn, Walrath Dinsmoor, and Edward H. Fauth. School board members are elected and serve for three years. Mr. Hermes retires after twenty-five years.

Dr. Abel and Mr. Hook coordinate program

Many nights during the first semester, people passing by East High could see a light burning in a small corner of the main office. During this time, Dr. Abel, the principal, was laboriously working on his thesis: "Use of Closed Circuit Television in Teacher Education: Relationship to Achievement and Subject Matter Understandings," for his doctorate from the University of Minnesota. Although he often stayed up until the wee hours of the morning, he still got to school on time to meet with department chairmen, supervise instruction, and hold individual faculty meetings. During the day, Dr. Abel and Mr. Hook, assistant principal, were confronted with many of the arduous tasks which must be met while dealing with 1800 students, 94 faculty members, five secretaries, twelve custodians, and eleven cafeteria workers. Mr. Hook supervised assemblies, pep convos, and the maintenance personnel, and acted as school purchasing agent.



PRINCIPAL—Dr. Frederick Abel obtained his doctorate while completing his fourth year at East High School. He is responsible for the smooth operation of the entire school curriculum.

ASSISTANT PRINCIPAL—Mr. Andrew Hook advises Student Council, coordinates extra-curricular activities, supervises our cafeteria, and secures supplies and repairs.

COL. P. GRANT of the United States Army proudly hands Dr. Abel the fifty-star flag dedicated by the Aurora Republican Women's Club as Mr. N. Hermes, president of the school board and a member for 25 years, approves.

DEPARTMENT CHAIRMEN with Dr. Abel: Back Row: Mr. Langlitz, Music; Mr. Trembacki, Photography and Audio-Visual; Mr. Mouw, Mathematics; Mr. Woolley, Language; Mr. Inman, Guidance. First Row: Miss Brown, Home Economics; Mr. Spurlock, Business Education; Mr. Maze, Physical Education; Mrs. Whitenack, Library; Mr. Blackman, English; Mr. Davis, Social Studies; Mr. Burgett, Practical Arts; Mr. Cappaert, Science; Mr. Hook, Assistant Principal; Dr. Abel, Principal. Chairmen meet regularly with the principal to synchronize the entire educational program.

Guidance department counsels all students

UNDER THE DIRECTION OF Mr. Inman, Mrs. Olenzak compiles the graduation credits and puts the grades on the students' permanent records to use for future reference.

"Where do we go for schedule changes? For career information? For details about college?" The guidance office provides the answers to all these questions. This year the guidance department added two new offices making a total of five offices and a reception-waiting room. The guidance counselors and the area in which they are primarily concerned are Mr. Inman, guidance director; Mrs. Krause, general counseling duties; Mr. Woolley, college counselor; Miss Brinkmann, freshmen; Mr. Court and Mr. Robert, sophomores; Mr. Mouw, mid-year students; and Mr. Paulson, handicapped students. Some of the tasks performed by them are orientation, course selection with four-year planning toward graduation, and vocational planning. This includes career and college preparation with curriculum recommendations and placement of students based upon standardized tests in the areas of intelligence, aptitude, interest, and achievement. Not only do the counselors administer the tests, but they discuss test performance and individual problems.

P.T.A. chooses "It's High Time" for theme

THE P.T.A. MEMBERSHIP DRIVE gets off to an enthusiastic start as interested men and women join and pay their dues after the first meeting, "It's High Time—We Know Our Personnel."

"High Time" to further parental interest in student-teacher relations was the P.T.A. theme this year. Parents met the teachers on Go-to-School-Night. In December, they gathered to "Renew the Spirit of Christmas," with a school play and choral presentation. At the next meeting former presidents were honored preceding views on what parents should expect of their children in college by Dr. Bone, President of Illinois State Normal University. Various forms of gymnastics were demonstrated at the March meeting. Completing the year's program, a style show and work exhibit were presented by the school. Faculty meet standards of Conant Report

East High, according to Dr. Abel, gained ground academically this year by raising the number of successfully met high school recommendations as set forth in the Conant Report. In 1959, East High met only twelve recommendations as evaluated by Dr. Abel. In eight others, East was making progress. In 1961, nineteen were met. The Conant Report is not the only field in which East has progressed. The old enemy of every homeroom teacher, red tape, was cropped by the introduction of an I.B.M. system for report cards and for class scheduling. New classes, new methods such as team teaching and more visual aids were also incorporated.

DR. ABEL and Mr. O'Neil talk with Mr. Valesano and Mr. McCarville as Mrs. C. Pulfer, Mrs. A. Trinko, and Mrs. R. Jess serve on "Apple for Teacher Day" sponsored by P.T.A.

Faculty members, in addition to their daily routines, took time to advise and sponsor the many extra-curricular clubs and organizations for active students. All of East High's faculty members sponsor or are affiliated with as many as three or four after-hours student activities. Since a sponsor must be present during any field trip and must serve as a guide to the organization, many long hours were spent at meetings and on the numerous field trips that were taken by the recognized organizations during the year.

FORECASTING A VICTORY over East's rivals across the river, Mr. Jennings encourages participation and attendance at the game with a comical poem he wrote called "To a Beatnik."

Teachers participate in community activities

Many members of our active faculty have served as officers in N.E.A., I.E.A., and other teachers' organizations, including E.A.T.A., the East Aurora Teachers' Association. Many of our teachers instruct the 556 adults who attend the evening classes here. They give willingly of their energy in order to teach those adults who wish to supplement their education with additional courses. Members of our physical education department participated in supervising 400 students who attend our intramural program, which makes it possible for all District #131 pupils to have physical recreation after school hours. Furthermore, we are proud to tell everyone that Aurora's mayor, Mr. Jay L. Hunter, is the former principal of East High.

MR. JAY HUNTER, the former principal and dean of boys at East High, was elected Aurora's mayor in the April election by an overwhelming majority.

Faculty "goes to school" for effective teaching

Our teachers take their job more seriously than the seven hours required of them each day in school. Not only do they teach, but they take advantage of their opportunities to learn also. After school, members of our faculty attend night school and extra courses for further training. While we students are enjoying a summer vacation, teachers attend both nearby and distant universities. During the past year Mr. Harth and Mr. Houser of our regular teaching staff have been working toward higher degrees on sabbaticals granted to them by the Board of Education. Members of the faculty spend their summer months traveling extensively both in the United States and foreign countries.

Helpers aid to make school life more pleasant

Life is made easier here at East by the many helpers who assist the faculty and administration in carrying out their duties. Mrs. Anderson and her eleven cafeteria workers prepare meals for over 800 hungry students every day. The maintenance department of twelve works long and hard to keep East High sparkling and clean. One hundred eighty-six students serve as assistants—some as hall monitors ready to guide visitors to their destination and helping to assure peace and quiet in the corridors between classes; others as department secretaries, answering and preparing correspondence for the faculty and aiding with the typing of tests and review sheets; and still others working as assistants, lightening the burden of East's librarians. Through the combined efforts of all these assistants, the task of running East High is accomplished.

Sports

Cheering the Tomcats on our home field, following them to out-of-town games, rushing and pushing at half-time for hot dogs and cokes, coming early for the best seats in the largest high school gym in Illinois, cheering at the first basket, hushing down as the free throws are attempted, applauding for the Aqua-Cat show—there was so much to do. Practicing for hours under the hot August sun on the gridiron, keeping fourteen baskets busy in the gym, pinning opponents on the wrestling mats, splashing foes in the pool, striving for a five-under-par golf game, rushing spring on the tennis court, winning for keeps the Beacon News trophy—this kept us, East High athletes, on the go.

On the go

East High has well-rounded athletic program

ADMIRING the Beacon-News City Relays trophy, won by East for the fourth year in a row, are Mr. Griffin, athletic director, and Mr. Robert, assistant director. The trophy, an imposing addition to the trophy case, is now a permanent possession of East High.

The 1960-61 sports season was a year of additions and subtractions. It saw a new school added to the Big Eight Conference, a new coach added to Aurora-East's staff, and saw another of East's coaches retire after many years of faithful service. The Lettermen's Club was revived this year after having been dormant for two years. For the first time since 1949, East had a boy cheerleader. East's extra curriculum was strengthened with a new sport this year: cross-country track. For the first time in East's sports history, the Dads' Club had color movies taken of some of the varsity and sophomore basketball games. The Dads' Club also maintained a concession stand at all the home football games. Rockford-Auburn, the third Rockford high school to enter the Big Eight Conference, replaced Joliet High School this year. Auburn is a new school in Rockford. Mr. Lee Witt, a new coach joining East's vast coaching staff this year, came on to lead the varsity cagers to a 13-8 season. Besides the varsity basketball team, Mr. Witt also coached the freshman football team. East's head varsity football coach, Mr. Court, retired at the end of the season for health reasons. The Lettermen's Club, revived this year, met regularly under the guidance of Mr. Court and Mr. Fowley. Officers this year were John Court, president; Jim Kreitz, vice-president; Art Schindel, secretary; Tom Jones, treasurer. The Lettermen's Club ran the concessions at the third Regional games held at East this year. Jeff Plese was elected as the "Tomcat" this year. He was the first boy to be a cheerleader since 1949. The new sport added this year was cross-country track. Led by Mr. Leas, who also coaches the East High swim team, the boys out for this vigorous sport learned the value of hard work and team effort though they did not win any meets this year. East's Pep Club, under the guiding hand of Judy Quantock, sparked up team and school spirit. The club went to the out-of-town football and basketball games and held pep convos throughout the year. Both varsity and sophomore cheerleaders bolstered spirit at pep convos and football and basketball games.

PICTURED below are Jim Kreitz, Ed Washington, and John Court. Each of these boys made All Big-Eight Conference and received mention on the state honorary team.

Under Mr. Court, coach, who retired from active coaching at the end of the season, the Tomcats finished the year with a 6-2-1 record. Weeks of twice-daily practice from late August until the beginning of school and team spirit paid off as the Tomcat varsity gridmen romped over Proviso East and Bloom in their two pre-Big Eight games. The Cats took the opener on home ground in a close, hard fought 7-6 game. One week later they rolled over Bloom 20-6. Elgin was the next to fall before the on rushing varsity gridmen, 14-7. The following Friday East traveled to the home of the team ranked number one in the state. Here, in Freeport's sunken garden, East tied for the only time this season, 7-7. East then toppled Rockford West, 12-0. Next came Rockford East, losing 14-13 to East. Rockford Auburn, a new school in the Big Eight Conference this year, were swamped by the Tomcats, 53-13 on Auburn's home gridiron.

East then welcomed LaSalle-Peru only to be defeated for the first time this year, 20-6. The average Tomcat gridman weighed only 165 pounds; he was 5'9" tall and as fast as a tomcat. Most of the teams East played had an average line weighing 190 pounds and they were six feet tall. East's junior varsity did not have quite the season the varsity did. They won one and lost three. The junior Cats dropped two to Elgin 27-0, and 14-7. They split with Naperville winning 7-6, and losing 19-6.

East lost the opener on home ground to Proviso-East, 16-0. In the second pre-conference game, East was forced to settle with a 13-13 tie with Bloom at Bloom's field. Yearling oakmen come up with 11-6 season

East's freshman cagers finished their year with an 11-6 won-lost record. The freshmen were sparked by some outstanding plays and some outstanding players. Several earning this title are Don Kreitz, Mark Westlund, Tom Weirich, and Bill Schindel. The yearlings won their first Jefferson tourney game against Oswego and then dropped their second game to Marmion, 54-49. The junior varsity oakmen, under the guiding hand of Mr. Buckler, won 11 games. and lost 6. Two junior boys, Jeff Frantz and Ted Nehls, were not on the J-V team because they both made varsity. The J-V team was led by many good players, including Cary Williams, Gayle Killey, and Joe Gerkin, the promising players for next year's basketball team.

Tomcat cindermen win Beacon-News Trophy

East's Tomcat thinclads won the Beacon-News city relays for the fourth year in a row this year. The large traveling trophy now permanently remains in East's trophy case at the south end of the gym. East High expanded the number of consecutive varsity dual meets to 67 before being tipped by the St. Charles cindermen. East led in the meet until the final few events when St. Charles pulled ahead and won the meet 60-58. Previously East had beaten Hinsdale, Joliet, Elgin, and Riverside-Brookfield. East finished second in the Kane County Track Meet, fifth in the Hinsdale Relays, sixth in the District Track and Field Meet, and third in the Big Eight Conference. Tom Hayden jumped 23 feet 6¾ inches to break the Big Eight broad jump record by 14 inches. Other trackmen named as outstanding athletes were Jerry Mabrey, Dave Southard, and James Kreitz. Mabrey was captain of the 1960 cindermen. Story and record of that year are on these pages, but the pictures are of the 1961 team and events.

Aqua-Cats splash in state meet, water show

Aqua-Cat members began the school year with a get-together party for all advanced swimmers who wished to join. In the early part of December many of the girls entered the Illinois State Swimming Meet where two girls placed: Ann Robert in the breast stroke and Sue Reid in the free style and back crawl. This placed East sixth in the state. After the meet the girls started intensive work for the water ballet show. Finally the show, "Down Memory Lane," was presented on April 13-14, and 15. Mrs. Wahlstrom, the Aqua-Cat adviser, was responsible for most of the choreography of the show.

"BY THE SEA" is the colorful opening of the water show, "Down Memory Lane," depicted by dancers: P. Hinton, M. Mitchell, M. Barcus, S. Stiller, S. Ellertson; swimmers: B. Enslow, J. Battenschlag, K. Collins, L. Mander, D. Hutfilz, contrasting the old and new.

East ties for first in City Golf Championship

Dick Enslow, captain of the 1960 varsity golf team, finished second in the Big Eight Conference meet held at Freeport. East had no participants this year in the state meet; however, the golfers placed sixth in the district at Big Run, Illinois, and seventh in the Conference.

Cross Country is new sport added at East

A new sport, cross country track, was added to East High's ever growing sports curriculum this year. The team was coached by Mr. Leas, who also coached East's swimming team. The cross country men got off to a poor start their first year losing all their meets. Over four hundred students a week attended East's intramural program. The time spent by the students at the intramurals is free time. The students are allowed to use the school's athletic facilities for the purpose of a more healthy body. Teachers from the physical education department give their time for the advancement of this program.

Linda,
Very good luck to a real nice girl. Perhaps I'll see you again next year. (I hope)

East High's Girls' Athletic Association has friendship, sportsmanship, healthful activity, and good health habits as its goals. More than 100 girls are members of G.A.A. To become a member, a girl must turn in a physical examination record and pay her dues. "Active members" must acquire twenty-four points each semester. The girls receive two points a night for participating in the many activities offered. Activities for the year are planned at a weekend camp-out by the officers, council members, and the adviser. Among those planned are tennis, soccer, volley ball, trampoline, tumbling, archery, baseball, softball, and swimming. Basketball and field hockey tournaments are held at the end of their respective seasons. One week of the year is devoted to a testing program. G.A.A. also sponsors dances, skating parties, and camp-outs for its members.

Activities

Doing ourselves proud in four smash hits, drilling before school for the halftime formations, harmonizing for singing and playing in the festival, batting our brains out for the Friday deadline, checking and doublechecking picture schedules, talking for hours in sixty different rounds, packing cookies and parties for this hospital and that hospital, manning the parking lots to regulate our comings and goings, scheduling and screening school assemblies and events, dashing off on frequent field trips and tours, sandwiching in dances and parties to get everyone acquainted—that's East High after hours, everyone going a million and one places and doing a million and one things leaving no time to spare.

Student council supplies books; sells malts

Representatives in Student Council were elected this year by the classes as a whole rather than by the individual homerooms, in hopes of allowing a more efficient transaction of business. During the summer vacation, several Student Council members compiled and organized the Enlightener, a booklet which was distributed to the incoming freshmen on orientation day in September. Because of the changing of many telephone numbers, the publication of the Who's Who, the student directory, was postponed until late spring. Prior to the East-West football game, Student Council officers from both schools had their traditional meeting to set up a code of behavior for the night of the game. A committee was set up to revise the Student Council constitution because of several questions of clarity. "Stairway to the Stars," this year's Homecoming program, was again sponsored by Student Council. Through Council action, Mrs. Weber was hired to sell milk shakes at the many school activities and during the lunch hours, and the book store gained a supply of paperback books for the students to peruse and buy. Korean war orphan, Yoo Duck Soon, continued to receive aid and because of considerable interest, action was taken toward obtaining a foreign exchange student for East High. For the first time in Student Council history, a tie vote was experienced in the election of the new president, which necessitated a runoff for the top candidates. At the end of the year, the traditional scholarship of $100 was awarded to an outstanding college-bound senior.

1960 BOYS' CLUB OFFICERS—Mr. Albright, adviser; Art Schindel, vice-president; Jerry Hart, secretary-treasurer; and Ed Washington, president. Absent—Bill Mabrey, sergeant-at-arms.

Acting as Big Brothers to the incoming freshmen started the Boys' Club on its year of activities. In the fall as East High began its conference football play against Elgin, the boys worked diligently in sponsoring the fifth-quarter dance. As homecoming approached, the committee met nightly to design and construct their float, "Rocket by Rockford." This year the inauguration of the new officers was held jointly with the Girls' Club. The installation was held in the evening in the cafeteria. Through the joint efforts of Boys' Club and band the 26th annual Minstrel Show was presented. This also took on a new light as the show was entitled "S.S. Showboat" and was novel in its presentation. To enable the students in photography classes to be better instructed, the club donated $200. The blazers which the boys wear when ushering for the basketball games were paid for in part by the Boys' Club. Another project was the redesigning of a smaller sticker for school cars and the revision of student parking lot regulations and the supervision of them.

Girls' Club plans parties, dances, Bow Week

Acquainting new students with East High was one of the major accomplishments of the East High Girls' Club in its orientation program at the beginning of the school year. The girls worked hard as they sponsored "Fall Frolic," their fifth quarter dance, entertained the girls at the Christmas party, and helped at the Empty Stocking Fund Party. The installment of officers was a novel affair this year as the girls joined with the Boys' Club in the inauguration festivities which took place in the evening. The girls made and sold bows to their respective classes during bow week and ended the week with the Turnabout Dance, "Tuobanrut." Representatives traveled to Park Ridge to attend the Girls' Club Conference. The years activities were climaxed with traditional Ivy Day. On this day, the girls present a tree or shrubs to beautify the school grounds; and past presidents of Girls' Club are guests of honor.

Speculum staff goes all out for end sheet color

Determined that the 1961 Speculum would be the best ever, fifteen members of the staff and adviser, Mrs. Schick, attended the National Journalism Convention held in Chicago and thus began their busy year. In September the Patron Drive was conducted by the business staff to raise the necessary $2,000 for the colored end sheets and the other "extras" for the Speculum. This staff also handled the contracts. The staff had a lot to live up to: twelve consecutive All-American books. The first three months were devoted to getting the layout done. From the first day the photography staff was busy planning, taking, and preparing pictures for the engraver. After a great deal of discussion, the theme "East High on the Go" was agreed upon. Knowing the theme, work was begun on the copy. Then the cover was chosen, a distinctive black with white rub. During February and March more and more pressure was exerted to meet the April deadline by staying long hours after school. Late in April the final proofreading and last minute corrections were made. Finally on Class Day the finished product, the 1961 Speculum, was presented to you, the students, faculty, and patrons of East.

CURRENT RETURNS in the Patron Drive are reported by Rich Goodwin, high salesman with $305, Larry Kreinbrink, fourth, and Edith Hayton, second—absent: Delores Reeve, third. Financing Speculum is senior project.

Auroran editors write new columns, plan show

Editing 4,000 copies of the Auroran per month was the accomplishment of the nine editors with the help of fifty reporters and their adviser. This year the Auroran added the Book Column and Job of the Week to contribute more interest to their bi-monthly issues. The paper is printed by the high school printing classes and distributed to the students free of charge. At Christmas a special six-page festive newspaper awaited the students of East as they began their Christmas vacation. Until show time in November, Mr. Blackman, the Auroran adviser, and the editors spent long hours after school directing "I Like It Here," the annual variety show. Several of the editors attended the journalism conventions held at Chicago and Champaign-Urbana. This winter the editor-in-chief appeared on the television program, "Rebuttal," telling briefly the history and activities of East High. At the journalism banquet in June the editors and reporters who had earned a minimum of 100 column inches of print and had had a sample of their writing approved by Quill and Scroll were awarded memberships into that organization. Besides providing the Auroran, the staff helps edit the East High P.T.A. Report Card, and each editor in turn writes the weekly high school column for the Beacon, in addition to supplying special newsworthy stories publicizing the events and activities of East.

"VERY WELL DONE," says Mr. Blackman, adviser for the Auroran, as C. Nelson, co-managing editor; R. Evans, co-managing editor; J. Court, editor-in-chief; D. Smith, sports editor; and J. Quantock, associate-editor, agree.

Tired feet, sore legs, and itchy mosquito bites were some of the rewards the East High marching band received as they practiced hard and long on the parking lot last summer. The big payoff was the thrill given the crowded stands during the halftime shows at home football games. The Pep Band helped to raise school spirit amid the cheering throngs at pep assemblies and home basketball games with the strains of "Wave the Flag." The Concert Band and combined bands presented a mid-winter concert. The band took part in the Minstrel, spring concert, and the Fox Valley Festival.

part in concerts, participates in contests

Participation in the Christmas program began the activities of the Orchestra after several months of intense practice. With the choral and drama groups, the Orchestra attended a matinee performance of "Flower Drum Song." Later Donna Rowe and Laurie Clark attended the All-State Music Activity at the University of Illinois. The annual Spring Concert was shared with the sophomore choir and the concert band. They were hosts for the District Contest of the Illinois High School Association in April and the Fox Valley Music Festival a week later. With a Children's Matinee Concert, they entertained all East side grades in East's auditorium. The string quintet played for civic activities.

Under the direction of Mr. O'Neil and Miss Kennedy, the choral groups remained in a constant hum of activity. The A Cappella Choir and drama class presented the "Fourth Wise Man," a Christmas play, to the students and to the December P.T.A. meeting. The Boys' Glee Club traveled to the schools in District 131 to present the vocal accompaniment for the same play. The sophomore choir, freshman choir, and Girls' Glee Club joined Boys' Glee Club and A Cappella Choir to present the annual May Music Night. In April the choral groups acted as hosts for the Fox Valley Music Festival held in East High's gymnasium. Members of A Cappella, Girls' Glee, and Boys' Glee thrilled the audiences for three nights with their presentation of the renowned "King and I." Many of the activities were presented through the combined efforts of the drama and the choral groups. Through these presentations all of the students are enjoying the entertainment possibilities of the auditorium, the vast stage with its many backdrops, the lights and the stage crew props.

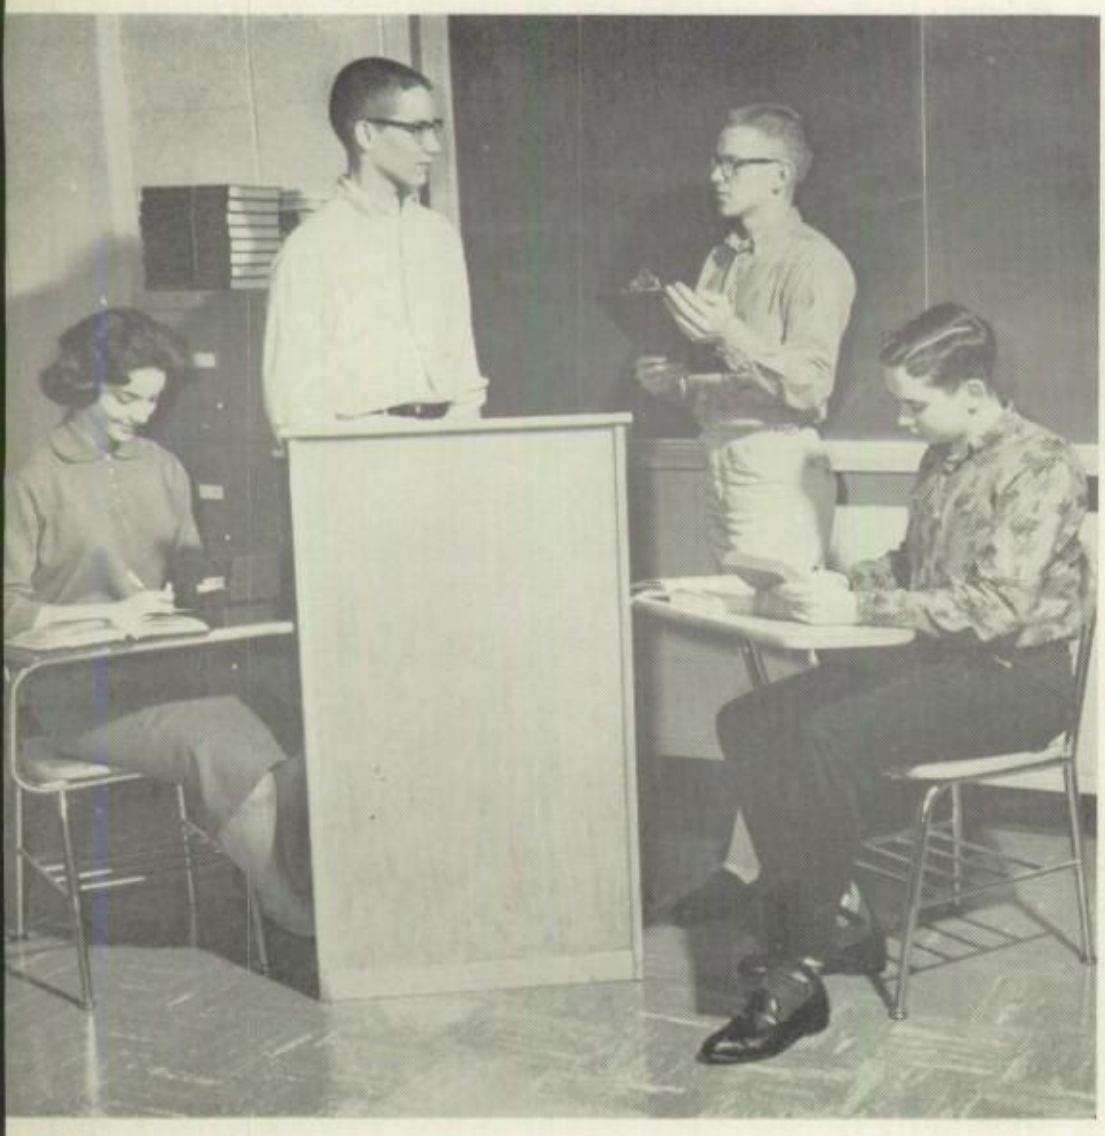
Debaters break all previous years' records



Coached by Mr. Jennings, this year's varsity debate team often spent many hours of their free time in several Chicago law libraries investigating the question, "Resolved: That the United Nations Should Be Significantly Strengthened." The team kept active in the National Forensic League by participating in over sixty rounds of debate at sixteen tournaments. East High took first place at both the East-West debate tournament and the Evanston tournament and placed second at the Big Eight meet. By placing third in sectional competition, the debaters qualified for state competition. The thirteen members of the sub-varsity team attended several tournaments and climaxed the year by participating in East High's invitational beginners' tournament.

RAY EVANS, negative, is cross-examined by John Miller, affirmative, while Gayle Evans, negative, and Bob O'Connor, affirmative, hastily take down notes in a practice debate before the state tournament held at Champaign.

Clubs render service to school and community

The Ushers' Club, made up of ninety senior girls, assisted in seating audiences at the Minstrel Show, "The King and I," and many other major school productions. Unlike several of the other organizations, the only benefits the ushers obtain are the satisfaction of rendering a useful service and a chance to meet many different people. The club is purely voluntary for seniors and is sponsored by Mr. Spurlock.

The Junior Red Cross, with the assistance of Miss Dollins, their adviser, prepared a Halloween "Party in a Box" for the veterans at Hines Hospital and carried the joy of Christmas to the patients at Downey Hospital by sending them 2,000 cookies. Gift boxes were prepared and sent overseas to the needy and to disaster areas. Besides providing services for the hospitals and the needy, the club operated the concessions and cloakrooms at the Regional Basketball Tournament to raise the necessary funds. Red Cross representatives also helped in the annual community membership drive.

JUDY KEWENIG, the president of Ushers' Club, gives last-minute instructions to vice-president, Janet Schoenfielder, and secretary, Carol Moore before the Minstrel audience arrive.

JUNIOR RED CROSS officers—B. Seibert, vice-president; S. Sebers, president; Miss Dollins, adviser; S. Jiavis, secretary; and K. Walter, treasurer—prepare gift boxes and center pieces for Downey Veterans' Hospital to be presented at Easter party paid for by students of East High. Clubs provide varied information for students

Future Teachers Association helped students better understand the teaching career. They sponsored a fifth-quarter dance, operated concessions and coat checks, and served as ushers at teachers' meetings. Several members enjoyed trips to the campuses of Wheaton College, Northern Illinois, and a convention at Illinois Normal University.

The twenty-three students participating in the Distributive Education program divide their time between attending classes and sales apprenticeship. This year two delegates were sent to the state convention. East High's D.E. is affiliated with the National Association.

Members of the cinema class are always on hand to operate the projectors for showing films for class lectures and club programs. This activity is no longer considered a club, since class credit is given to the students enrolled.

D.E. OFFICERS: C. Stovall, treasurer; B. Williams, vice-president; H. Cole, president; and J. Creighton, secretary.

DAN SMITH, Bill Kain, and Tom Tosaw inspect some of the new overhead equipment used by visual aid helpers.

Helping students to better understand the field of medicine is the goal of the Junior Medical Club. This was done through speakers, movies, and informative folders. Highlighting the year was a trip and complete tour of Hines Hospital.

The purpose of Future Nurses is to promote interest in the profession of nursing, provide additional information concerning this vocation, and provide service to the community. This year the club visited the Aurora Blood Bank and toured Hines Veterans' Hospital.

The Thespian Society is dedicated to the purpose of advancing the dramatic arts at East High. They sold programs at football games, sponsored a dance, took several trips, and presented plays to several community groups. Their motto is, "Act well your part; there all the honor lies."

INTENT UPON THEIR GOALS for East's Future Nurses' Club are its officers—Betsy Rowe, vice-pres.; Pat Walsh, secretary-treasurer; and Joanne Thryselius, president.

Students

Rushing to classes, hurrying to lunch, racing to study hall to avoid detention, tramping to games, facing piles of homework—this is the busy and hurried schedule confronting us, the students of East High. Participating in extracurricular activities, serving on committees, holding part-time jobs while still trying to keep up grades added to the constant hum of activity surrounding all of us. Although the routine filled every minute and there seemed to be no time for another thing, new and exciting happenings crowded the schedule. All this action multiplied by 1750 of us made East High a school going places. We're East's youth—on the go!

On the go

Class of '61 sees 381 graduate on June 8

The class of 1961 began high school with 499 members; now 381 of them are ready to graduate. But as graduation comes and goes, we can't help thinking of how rushed, how busy, how active our last year was. All the senior projects and activities were planned by the committees picked and headed by the senior class officers and guided toward their goals by the advisers. Most of the hours of work and planning were aimed, of course, at the one big night—graduation. In addition to the strictly class activities, the seniors found time to be the most active class in the many extra-curricular activities, as well. But all this after-hours activity did not take the place of their schoolwork and formal preparation for their future. Four years of work and preparation were shown in capsule form when class rank was released to waiting students. Many filled their schedules with college preparatory courses and struggled with their entrance examinations hoping that they would be admitted to their chosen college. After being admitted, many forms of scholarship aid were investigated. More tests were taken and interviews and questioning periods were held with the many organizations and concerns offering assistance. Shortly after this the ballots were distributed for electing students to the status of the National Honor Society. But not all students worked toward college. The business and industrial education classes were filled with students aiming at a job right after graduation. D.O and D.E. provided seniors with the opportunity to hold a job on school time and thereby prepare for their post-graduation positions. Business education students gained experience in the school bank and general office, provided secretarial services for departments and faculty.

MAKING PLANS for graduation and the necessary committees is the job of senior class officers: Nancy Hauser, secretary-treasurer; Sid Ellertson, vice-president; and Don Bauer, president.

AFTER MANY LONG WEEKS of writing, revising, and practicing their speeches, Miss Prindle, adviser, and commencement speakers—Karen Roots, Mark Shoger, and John Miller—will be ready for the evening they will address commencement crowds.

SENIOR COMMENCEMENT COMMITTEE MEMBERS seriously concentrate on the selection of speakers, choosing them on reputation, ability to organize and speak before an audience.

Juniors select rings, take tests, build float

MAKING PLANS for this year's activities, which include the Junior-Senior Prom, are the junior class officers: Sharon Stallman, secretary-treasurer; Pat Stickney, vice-president; and Joe Gerkin, president; while Mr. Schaub, faculty adviser, helps make decisions.

Choosing and receiving their long-awaited class rings was the highlight of the junior year. Later in the year, junior committees met to plan and sponsor the junior-senior prom. Choosing a class color and flower occupied much of the time of many of the class members. In the fall they took the Illinois Aptitude test, and in March, seventy sleepy-eyed juniors arrived on a Saturday morning to take the qualifying test for the National Merit Scholarship.

We express our gratitude

As the year ends and the Spectrum is received, we must realize that the work of countless people went into turning it out. We express our thanks to the faculty, administration, and students; to Walinger Studios, who took the countless pictures; to Aurora Engraving Company, who processed all the photographic prints; to S. K. Smith Company for our choice of cover design; and to Kelmscott for printing our book.
